Last Of Season.

Seven thousand pounds of dressed turkeys were loaded on the eleven o'clock train Sunday morning for shipment to the eastern market. The shipment went by express and represents the cleaning up for Christmas as no more can be shipped now in time to reach the market for the holiday trade.

Hyattsville Store Changes Hands.

Mr. Henry Arnold has purchased of the Hurt Bros., William and Noah, their storehouse and dwelling at Hyattsville for $100. Mr. Arnold also bought of Ham Bros. their stock of goods and will take possession as soon as the invoice can be completed. Mr. Arnold is a son of Mr. H. C. Arnold, is a thrifty and industrious young man, and as this is one of the best country store sites in the county, we predict for him a splendid business.

Wright-Elkin.

At four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Carlton Elkin and Miss Nell Wright of Liberty, Ky., were married by Elder Spencer of the Central Christian Church at Lexington, Ky.

The bride graduated from Caldwell College last year and is a gifted and most accomplished musician with her charming personality and lovely face, she will add much to the social ranks of Lancaster.

Mr. Elkin is known to every one in this section of the state and is a young man of the very highest qualities. They will be at home to their friends after Dec 25, at "Maples" the home of Capt. T. A. Elkin.

Smith's Drawing.

The distribution of prizes by Mr. James W. Smith on last Friday attracted a large crowd, who stood in a drizzling rain, tickets in hand, every holder of a ticket confidently expecting to draw one of the prizes offered. Dr. J. J. Pursley acted as master of ceremonies and little Miss Della Rice Hughes was blind folded and drew the tickets from the receptacle, the ticket which drew the capital prize was number 4410 and was held by Morrison Luce of Hubble, the prize was a two horse Studebaker farm wagon. Young Luce is a pupil at the Lancaster Graded School. Mrs. Henry Simpson held a ticket which drew $15, Mr. C. A. Arnold $25, and John Henry $10.

Heavy Verdict.

The closing hours of the December term of the Garrard circuit court were devoted to the hearing of the case of Mr. Richard D. Campbell of Lowell against the United States Casualty Co. Mr. Campbell held an accident policy with the company which for the loss of an eye gave him $2500, and in case of the accident occurring while traveling on a railroad train or any other common carrier, double that amount. Some time last spring Mr. Campbell boarded a train at Paint Lick and rode down to Lowell. While on the train he claims that a cinder became imbedded in his eye and as a result he lost the sight of his eye. A jury gave him a verdict for $5500, which was a face of the policy, medical and hospital fees and interest.

Local Option Election In Lincoln.

The people of Lincoln county are to again have the opportunity to vote upon the question as to whether or not they will have the licensed sale of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors. At the last regular county court day, December 11th, a petition bearing the requisite number of names was presented to Judge Bailey, and notwithstanding a protest was filed asking that time be given the temperance people to go over and attempt to purge the list of names which were alleged to be signed irregularly, Judge Bailey ordered an election to be held on February 10th, 1912, when the matter will be finally decided. The election promises to be a warm one as both sides are preparing to make a vigorous fight.

Good Show.

The girl mentalist "Ita" who is showing at the opera house every night this week is a wonder and is attracting large and appreciative audiences each evening. She will tell you many things that are true to the very word and every one that has seen her is amazed at her wonderful feats. Among the many things that she amused her audience with on Monday night was the telling of the number in a watch which she had no chance to see or have anyone tell her about. We have not seen one person who was dissatisfied with the show in any way and every one has a good word for "Ita". Manager Romans was very lucky to get her here for the company had offers from Middleboro, Paris, Lexington and other cities larger than ours. He has been trying to get her here for several months and only succeeded this week. "Ita" played 5 weeks in succession in Chicago and 79 nights in Louisville and attracted much attention. You should not miss this opportunity to see this wonderful young lady and after you have seen her once you will want to see every performance. She will only be here this week as she has an engagement next week in Chattanooga, Tenn.

All stores open at night the balance of this week.

The reports of the three State Banks in this county are in this weeks issue of the paper. All of them made good showings.

The Movement for an "Associated Charities" organization for Lancaster and Garrard met, Monday night at Council room and adjourned to Thursday night of this week to complete organization.

The plan of such, submitted by Dr. Pearce by request, was most favorably received.

We as a family desire to extend to our neighbors and many friends also to the efficient undertaker M. A. Kennedy and Pastor J. E. Simpson our heart felt thanks for their assistance and many kindnesses in the loss of our wife and mother Wm. Price Ruble, L. H. Ruble's son, Mattie Munday and Dora Hamilton Daughters.

Typewriters.

If you are interested in buying a new or second hand typewriter, call at this office. We are agents for the best machines made.

Daughter.

Died on November 28th, at Seale, Alabama, of heart failure, Mrs. Anrelda Jennings Daugherty, aged 65. She was a daughter of Major Thos. Jennings, and was born and reared in Garrard County.

Wish We Had A Vote For Him.

Hon. J. O. Bogie is a candidate for Assistant Clerk of the Kentucky Legislature, and we wish as sincerely as we ever wished anything in our life that he may succeed in landing the position. If there is a democrat in the state that deserves recognition it is Johnnie Bogie. He served this county in a very acceptable as a member of the House at the last session, and was a candidate for the nomination to succeed himself, but was defeated by Hon. John M. Farra, and like the good democrat and clever gentleman that he is he submitted gracefully and was found in the front rank of the democratic phalanx doing battle for the nominee. Such men are deserving of the positions that are to be distributed.

Redeeming Pledge.

One of the most manly editorials to be found Kentucky wide for 1911, was in the "Lancaster Record" of the past week on the Democratic party redeeming its pledge, in its platform of this year, on the County Unit Bill.

Logical, concise, forceful it may be fairly assumed to represent the highest conscience and purpose of an overwhelming majority of the people of Kentucky of all parties, and it is believed the coming Legislature will so register. Will the "Third House" allow it? We wait to see! That one commercial interest of Kentucky as a "Third House" should take its "Legislature" by the throat and say "come our way" is inconceivable.

A Reader.

Judge Walker Married.

Not an elopement, but closely resembling one was the marriage of Judge Lewis L. Walker and Miss Flora Zeigler, which took place at the home of Rev. Ellis, formerly located at this place, in Covington last Thursday at noon. Judge Walker left here on last Tuesday morning, ostensibly to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of State College, of which he is a member, on Wednesday, and he informed a few friends that he expected to go from there to Martinsville Ind., for a short stay. On the following Thursday morning Miss Flora Zeigler boarded the early morning train for Covington, she informed Mrs. Zimmer of the intention of herself and Judge Walker to be married on that day, which was the first inkling that any of their Lancaster friends had of the event. They were married at noon at the home of Rev. Ellis, that gentleman officiating, and left at once for Indianapolis, thence to Martinsville Ind., where they will remain until after the holidays, and where Judge Walker hopes to recover a great deal of his lost strength, he being but recently recovered from an attack of typhoid fever.

This popular couple requires no introduction to the people of Lancaster or Garrard county. Judge Walker has but recently vacated the bench as circuit judge of the district, and will on January 1st resume the practice of law in Lancaster.

Miss Flora Zeigler is probably as well known and to as many people as any young lady in the county, and she is justly popular with everyone. She has been making her home with Mr. and Mrs. R. Zimmer for the past seven years, and though no relation to them, she occupied the same place in their affections as if she had been one of their own children. She was born in Cincinnati and was left an orphan at an early age and has since made her home with a brother of Mrs. Zimmer until she came here to reside. A handsome blonde, of a sweet disposition and attractive personality, she made friends of everyone with whom she came in contact, and there is not one of her acquaintances who will not join in wishing that her future may be a long and happy one. Upon their return, which will be about January 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Walker will take rooms for the time being at the Kengarian hotel.

NATION WIDE

The Men And Boys Forward Movement

For Religion Lancaster And Garrard Organize For The February Campaign In Kentucky.

The Movement is interdenominational, forty six states are being organized. Irreligion of a community, state nation is to be met with new activities nation wide. Seventy five leading cities of America, this winter, will have eight days of specially conducted services by trained laymen workers. These will conduct service to train other workers for special line of movements to reach men and boys, especially in each state. In town these will be sent out on itinerary of regular program, thro out each state, to all places that will receive and co-operate. For Kentucky, the movement, was recently begun at Louisville and continued for eight days; those business program and methods being served. According to Dr. Powell and other leading ministers and laymen of the city, also in notice of the Louisville Press the city has not been so stirred in thirty years past.

Twenty two cities and towns of Ky., have asked for the presence and service of these trained laymen workers and business men for the campaign thro the state next February; among them Lancaster, thro the Mass meeting of Lancaster churches last Sunday afternoon inviting to co-operate with the special workers sent out over the state from Louisville, in Feb, 1912.

The interest and attitude of leading membership of all churches last Sunday in Lancaster was excellent; the county also represented by superior men.

By common consent the movement is vitally needed. This was the unanimous votes, last Sunday afternoon in the Lancaster meeting in which all the pastors and church official Board, were represented, and in which earnest desire was expressed in addresses both for laymen and ministers, that the benefit and blessing, might reach every home in Garrard County; especially to men and boys for a forward movement in the life of Religion.

For the Boy in Garrard county today movement is mightily vital. Scores are going astray so all over Kentucky. If the Garrard Boys to be reached and built up to honorable manhood, it must have the presence, example of the parent. Without such, all "Movements" will fail. The home religion or irreligion for the Boy, is the sign and seal of his Eternity.

Circuit Court Closes.

The November term of the Garrard circuit court closed on last Saturday, holding to the very last minute of the term, and a vast volume of business was transacted. Judge Hardin graced the bench with much dignity, and a stranger would have supposed that he had been "on the job" for years rather than that this was his first term. Both attorneys and the public are marked in their praise of his manner of presiding. As this was the term at which the jury commissioners are chosen, Judge Hardin selected Mr. Samuel D. Cochran, Mr. Charles K. Poindexter and Dr. J. A. Amos to perform this most important duty appertaining to the circuit court. Better selections could not have possibly been made, as these gentlemen are in every way fitted to perform the duties which are to be required of them. Upon the jury commissioners will depend the personnel of the juries for the county for the next year, and the selection of these three representative citizens will insure the coming juries to be composed of the very best material obtainable in the county. Immediately preceding the closing of the court, Messrs G. B. Swinebroad, H. C. Kauffman and J. E. Robinson, who had been chosen as a committee to represent the Garrard county bar, offered the following memorial incident to the retirement of Judge Lewis L. Walker as Circuit Judge and Hon. Charles A. Hardin as Commonwealth's Attorney: "We the member of the Garrard County Bar wish to offer upon the retirement of Judge Lewis L. Walker from the circuit Judgeship of the Thirteenth Judicial District an attestation of our appreciation of his services during his incumbency. Learned in the law, just and unbiased, prompt, courteous and polite alike with litigants and attorneys, he retires with the esteem and respect of everyone, and we could wish him nothing better in the future than that his undertakings may be crowned with as much success as has been his career as circuit judge of this judicial district.

We also wish to voice our appreciation of the services of Hon. Charles A. Hardin, who has served the district so faithfully and well as its Commonwealth's Attorney, and to assure him that if he meets with the same measure of success, and wins the plaudits of both the bar and the people in his new capacity as Circuit Judge, as he did in the former, the people of the district and the members of the bar could neither wish for nor expect a more efficient and capable circuit judge."

Lost; buggy robe between home and public square, Thursday afternoon Dec. 14. Return to me and receive reward. Mrs. Pendleton Cox

There is a hue and cry being raised throughout Kentucky for the revision of the system of taxation in vogue, and the placing of the taxing system upon an equitable basis; and that Kentucky is a tax ridden state there is no doubt, but there is an evil existing in Kentucky far greater than the tax evil and one which it is within the power of her people to remedy, namely the Insurance evil. Kentucky is at the mercy of the Insurance Combine. The insurance companies doing business in the state have worked their own sweet will with those who were compelled to carry fire protection, demanding rates in many instances that were almost prohibitive, and because of the want of adequate laws it has been impossible to remedy this state of affairs. However, an effort is now under way which tends toward providing a remedy; the Louisville Board of Trade has appointed a special "Insurance Committee", which committee will endeavor to have the coming session of the Kentucky General Assembly pass such laws as will enable the state to regulate insurance rates, and to give to the people of this state an equitable table of insurance rates, compel them, if they desire to do business in this state, to afford us protection for the same premiums which are paid in other states where laws exist regulating their rates.

In the state of Missouri they have a law requiring that only reasonable rates shall be charged and that only reasonable rates shall be lawful. Lancaster is classed by the companies doing business in Kentucky as being in class number Four and one half, and we give herewith a tabulation of the rates charged for dwellings in Kentucky in towns in that class, where we have no legal regulation as to the rates, and a table of charges in Missouri towns in the same class where there is a regulation placed on their rates.

Missouri Maximum	Kentucky Basis	Kentucky Maximum
25 30 35 40	45 55 65 75	65 80 90 105

The above tabulation in a very comprehensive manner points out the evil as it exists, and as readily suggests the remedy which is to be had for the asking. There is not a trust or combine doing business in this or any other state which is more avaricious than this Insurance Combine, none who are more extortionate in their charges, more greedy or extortionate, and the worst of the whole business is that we are wholly at their mercy, we must either insure with them at whatever rate they may see proper to charge, or we must do without insurance and leave our property at the mercy of the fire.

There was never a more laudable move inaugurated for a "Greater Kentucky" than this movement of the Louisville Board of Trade to secure the enactment of laws looking to the lowering of insurance rates, and the people of the state should render them every assistance in their power, should see their representative and see that he thoroughly understands and is in sympathy with the movement, and that he is ready to lend his assistance to its furtherance. By the hearty co-operation of the people of the state, it will be but a matter of a short time when we will be relieved of this insurance burden, and will have laws which will regulate these avaricious companies and will compel them, if they desire to do business in Kentucky, to afford us such reasonable rates as are given in other states where they are legally restricted.

On last Saturday in the chambers of the Supreme Court of the United State in Washington, where for thirty years he had been accustomed to render decisions, a vast throng of leading lawyers and laymen from all over the country gathered to render memorial service to the late Justice John Marshall Harlan. Ex-Governor A. E. Willson of Kentucky presided at the meeting, Gov. Bradley spoke and Hon. Swager Sherry was on the committee which drafted the resolutions in behalf of the Supreme court bar.

The British government has issued orders barring the American packers who are under indictment for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law from bidding on contracts for supplying meats and packing house products to the British war department. As a result, cheaper meats are predicted in this county.

All the Banks in town will be closed on Monday, (Xmas Day).

One Of The Social Events Of The Season.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. E. Anderson will celebrate their Fiftieth Anniversary on the 9th. of January. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are well known here, having been born and reared in Garrard County and come of the oldest families; Their forefathers being pioneers, and among the first settlers of the state, Hyatts, and Beazleys Anderson, Allen Gatewoods, and Edmoreson, many relatives from adjoining towns will be present, as well as a host of friends here.

It is unusual occasion, as the couple have always resided in our county, and town, and so far have reared six children, and six grandchildren and up to this writing have not had a single death in their immediate family circle, through sickness and reverses, pleasure, and prosperity have gone hand in hand with them.

Traylor homestead, the distillery and 810 acres of land, the price paid being $23,327.50, or a fraction over $75. per acre. The purchasers will continue the manufacture of the Traylor brands of whiskey, and it is said the same business arrangements will be maintained as heretofore with Paxton Bros. of Cincinnati. The same firm, A. T. Traylor & Co. bought the old Dudderar Mill property, consisting of the mill site, residence and 187 acres of land for $68. per acre. The John Traylor farm was purchased by Mr. W. J. (Buck) Holtzclaw for $40. per acre. The John Traylor distillery was purchased by Mr. William West for $875. Valuable Man.
"I say," cried the business man to the detective, "some fellow has been representing himself as a collector of ours. He has been getting in more money than any two of the men we have, and I want him caught as quickly as you can." "Ah, right. I'll have him in jail in less than a week." "Great-Scott, man! I don't want to put him in jail. I want to engage him!"—Ideas.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR Hundreds Of Lancaster Citizens Can Tell You All About It

Home endorsement, the public expression of Lancaster people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Lancaster reader, of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far-away places. Read the following.

George Wright, Stanford St., Lancaster, Ky., says: "I have never known of a better kidney remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Last fall my back ached a great deal and my kidneys were badly disordered, the kidney secretion being scanty and painful in passage. I fortunately had Doan's Kidney Pills brought to my attention and getting a box at Frisbie's Drug Store, I began their use. They relieved me promptly and in return for the benefit I received, I am willing that my name should be used in recommending them. My advice to all sufferers from kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Triumph for Sandy.
Sandy and his master drove up to the small station as the train approached. "Here's yer train, sir," said Sandy. "That is not my train," replied the master, who had his own ideas about correct speech, "but it's the train I am going by." But it happened to be a special train and didn't stop at the station, whereupon Sandy exclaimed: "We're both wrong, for it's neither your train nor the one ye're gaun by, but it's the one that's gane by you."

Stuffed up head will vanish. Keep up the treatment four or five times a day for a few days and hawking, spitting and forming of mucus in the nose and throat will cease.

Corn Show.

The second annual corn show of the Kentucky Corn Growers Association will be held at the College of Agriculture in Lexington Jan. 2-5th. There are thirty three premiums offered, not including second premiums which are offered in many classes. The state is divided into three divisions and this county is in the second district. Premiums are offered for every class of corn produced in the state, and from the number of entries in the local corn show held here recently, no doubt but what some of our farmers can compete successfully for some of the prizes. The following rules will govern the show:

1 Entries close Saturday, December 23rd. Exhibits must be in place not later than Saturday, December 30th. They may be shipped prepaid to Secretary, who will place them on exhibition.

2 All exhibitors must pay the Association membership fee of fifty cents, which entitles them to all the benefits of the Association. No exemption is made for the Junior Department.

3 Exhibits may be retained by the owner, all return charges to be paid by the owner.

4 No exhibitors can make more than one entry in each class, but may enter in each class in which he is eligible. A separate sample must be provided for each class entered.

5 All corn exhibited must have been grown by the exhibitor in 1911.

6 In the yield and profit contests in the Junior Department the exhibitor must file certificate of two disinterested persons who measured the ground and weighed the corn. The certificate must state weight and measures and must be approved by the County School Superintendent or other persons who may be in charge of the boys corn club of the county. Contestants for yield and profit must make an exhibit of 36 ears of corn grown in the contest corn. Less than one half an acre will not admit to this contest.

7 In making up the cost of production in the profit per acre contests, an itemized statement must be submitted showing all expenditures, the labor and materials used. Labor will be valued at 75 cents per day for boys and $1.00 per day for men. Manure will be valued at $1.00 per two-horse wagon load, on account of part of the value remaining in the soil. All fertilizers will be charged at full cost. The corn will be valued at 65 cents per bushel.

8 The yield is to be determined by the weight of ear corn when drawn from the field, using 70 pounds to the bushel.

Anyone desiring to exhibit or wishing further information in regard to the show will address George Roberts, Secretary, Lexington Ky.

No Discredit to Honest Men.

It is undoubtedly true that there are honest men who have been treated as cheats and liars, but it also happens that the ones who have treated them as such are the real cheats and liars.

Really Interesting People.

Stevenson says he once sailed on a steamer which turned out to be a ship with no style on, but with plenty of sailors to talk to. "Plenty of sailors to talk to" suggests most anything but that "you can always tell a man by the company he keeps." The great man loves to rub elbows with what too often are unjustly called the common people, people who live their own queer way regardless of man-made laws or the whims and edicts of society. The common people are the only people who, wise or foolish, are natural and interesting.

Lightning Kills Few.

In 1906 lightning killed only 169 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chance of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not if Electric Bitters be used, as Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Ia., proved. Four doctors gave him up after eight months of suffering from virulent liver trouble and yellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters. They're the best stomach, liver, nerve and kidney remedy, clear blood purifier on earth. Only 50c at R. E. McRoberts & Son. 1-m

Naturally.

Boatman--Peter and me'll not be able to take ye out fishin' tonight, Ma'am; but Peter's nephew will be after takin' ye av ye like. Lady--Well, I hope Peter's nephew is cleaner than Peter is? Boatman--He is, Ma'am, he's younger.--Punch.

Saved His Wife's Life.

"My wife would have been in her grave to-day," writes O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., "if it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery. She was down in her bed, not able to get up without help. She had a severe bronchial trouble and a dreadful cough. I got her a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, and she soon began to mend and was well in a short time." Infallible for coughs and colds, its most reliable remedy on earth for desperate lung trouble, hemorrhages, influenza, asthma, hay fever, croup and whooping cough. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Please have the following letter published. As I sure know the tortures of stomach trouble and Rheumatism myself. If I can be of any help to others I will be only too glad to do so. I have been troubled with Stomach troubles and Rheumatism for a number of years and no one knows the tortures until they have them. A friend told me a man in Lancaster cured him and would cure me. He says his name is Dakota Jack. I wrote him and he sent me a 45 days treatment of Pursley's Indian Herbs. I taken them according to directions and saw they done me good. I taken two treatments and they cured me and will cure you. I have tried many other remedies and all proved failures. As a friend to sufferers of stomach troubles and Rheumatism try Pursley's Indian Herbs. (Signed) M. H. Barnes. Pursley's Indian Herbs are for sale in Lancaster by the following people, J. J. ## FARMER'S COLUMN space below this heading is for the exclusive use of our farmer subscribers, and is for the sale of stock, grain and such things on farm as the farmer cannot afford to advertise. No notice will be accepted over four lines, and will be only in two issues of the Record, free of charge.

Mr. Timothy Ford sold to Mr. Clayton Arnold a bunch of hogs at 4 cts per lb.

A few crops of tobacco were sold here last week to Lancaster parties at 10 and 11 cts per lb.

Messrs Lawson & Brown sold to Lillard & Fox of Danville 45 eight hundred pound yearling cattle at 4 1/2 cents per pound and delivered them on last Monday.

Capt. Am Bourne who cried the sale for R. E. Edwards and Richard Brown, administrators of LaFayette Brown, deceased, reports the following—1 pair of aged mules $200; milk cows $30. to $40; Forty head of sheep at $4. per head; 1 sow and 4 shoats for $11; Nine shoats at $1.50 per head. Farming implements sold well.

Mr. Bourne is a good auctioneer and certainly gets the highest dollar for anything he sells.

W. B. Burton returned Sunday from a ten days stay in Wilson N. C. where he went to assist in disposing of a large number of horses and mules which he has recently shipped to the Wilson Live Stock Co. Mr. Burton returned via Atlanta Ga. where he purchased a car load of stock consisting of five horses for which he paid $765. and 20 mules which cost him $196. per head, and which he shipped to his farm at Wilson, Mr. Burton tells us that the mule trade in the south is completely derelict, and that mules may be purchased in Atlanta for a less price than the same animals would bring here at home.

CHAPTER I.

The roaring reports of the motor fell into abrupt silence, as the driver brought his car to a halt.

"You signaled?" he called across the grind of set brakes.

In the blending glare of the search-lights from the two machines, the gray one arriving and the limousine drawn to the roadside, the young girl stood, her hand still extended in the gesture which had stopped the man who now leaned across his wheel.

"Oh, please," she appealed again.

On either side stretched away the Long Island meadows, dark, soundless, apparently unbroken. Only this spot of light broke the monotony of dreariness. A keen, chill, October wind sighed past, stirring the girl's delicate gown as its folds lay unheeded in the dust, fluttering her furred cloak and shaking two or three childish curls from the bondage of her velvet hood.

The driver swung himself down and came toward her with the unhesitating swiftness of one trained to the unexpected.

"I beg pardon—can I be of some use?" he asked.

"We are lost," she confessed hurriedly. "If you could set us right, I should be grateful. I—we must get home soon. I have been a guest at a house somewhere here, and started to return to New York this afternoon."

The chauffeur does not know Long Island; we cannot seem to find any place. And now we have lost a tire. I was afraid—"

He huddled his words slightly and spoke too rapidly, the round, good-humored face he turned to the white light was too flushed; otherwise there was nothing unusual in his appearance. And his caste was evident and unquestionable in spite of any circumstance. There was no anger in the girl's dark eyes as she gazed straight before her, only pity and helplessness.

"I can tell your chauffeur the road," the driver of the gray car quietly said. "Have you far to go?"

"To the St. Royal," she answered, looking at him. "My uncle is there. Is that far?"

"No; you can reach there by ten o'clock. I will speak to your chauffeur."

"Do, like a good fellow," the other man interposed. "Awfully obliged. You're not angry, Emily," he added, lowering his voice, and moving near her. "Since we're engaged, why should you get frightened simply because I proposed we get married to-night instead of waiting for a big wedding? I thought it was a good idea, you know. It isn't my fault. Anderson got lost instead of getting us home for dinner, is it?"

"Hush, Dick," she reuked, hot color sweeping her face. "You are not well. And we are not engaged; you forget. Just because people want us to be—"

"Too proud to let her steadiness quiver, she broke the sentence."

If the driver had heard, and it was scarcely possible that he had not, he made no sign. By the acetylene light he produced an envelope and pencil, and proceeded to sketch a map showing the route to the limousine's chauffeur.

"Understand it?" he queried, concluding. He had a certain decision of manner, not in the least arrogant, but the result of a serene self-surety that somehow accorded with his lithe, trained grace of movement. A judge of men would have read him an athlete, perhaps in an unusual line.

"Yes, sir," the chauffeur replied. "I'll get Miss Ffrench home in 10 minutes after I get the tire on."

The indiscretion of the spoken name was ignored, except for a slight lift of the hearer's eyebrows.

"How long does it take you to change a tire?"

"About half an hour; it's night, of course."

An odd, choking gurgle sounded from the gray machine, where a dark figure had sat until now in quiescent muteness.

"Half an hour!" echoed the gray machine's driver, and faced toward the chuckle. "Rupert, it isn't in your contract, but do you want to come over and change this tire?"

"I'll do it for you, Darling," was the sweet response; the small figure rolled over the edge of the car with a catlike celerity. "Where are your tools, you chauffeur? Quick!"

girl looked on in fascination at a rapidity of unswayed movement suggesting a conjuring feat.

"By George!" exclaimed her escort. "A splendid man you've got there! Really, a splendid chauffeur, you know."

The driver smiled with a gleam of irony, but disregarded the comment.

"Would you like to get into your car?" he asked the girl. "You will be able to start very soon."

"I see that," she acknowledged gratefully. "Thank you; I would rather wait here."

"Is your chauffeur trustworthy?"

"Oh, yes; he has been in my uncle's employ for three years. But he was never before out here, in this place."

There was a pause, filled by the soft monotone of insults drifting from the side of the limousine, for Rupert talked while he worked and his fellow-worker did not please him.

"Wrench, baby hippo! Oh, look behind you where you put it—you need a memory course. You ought to be passing spoons to a lady with a sewing machine. Did you ever see a motor car before? There, pump her up, do."

He rose, drew out his watch and glanced at it. "Five minutes; I'll have to beat that day after tomorrow."

The driver looked over at him and their eyes laughed together. Now, for the first time the girl noticed that across the shoulders of both men's jerseys ran in silver letters the name of a famous foreign automobile.

"I am very grateful, indeed," she said bravely and graciously. "I wish I could say more, or say it better. The journey will be short, now."

But all her dignity could not check the frightened shrinking of her glance, first toward the interior of the limousine and then toward the man who was to enter there with her. And the driver of the gray machine saw it.

"We have done very little," he returned. "May I put you in your car?"

The chauffeur was gathering his tools, speedily outraged, and making ready to start. Seated among the rugs and cushions, under the light of the luxurious car, the girl deliberately drew off her glove and held out her small uncovered hand to the driver of the gray machine.

"Thank you," she said again, meeting his eyes with her own; whose darkness contrasted oddly with the blonde curls clustered under her hood.

"You are not afraid to drive into the city alone?" he asked.

"Alone! Why, my cousin—"

"Your cousin is going to stay with me."

She flung back her head; amazement, sudden, relief struggled over her sensitive face, and finally melted into irrepressible mirth under the fine amusement of his regard.

"You are clever—and kind, to do that! No, I am not afraid."

He closed the door.

"Take your mistress home," he bade the chauffeur. "Crank for him, Rupert."

"Why, why—" stammered the limousine's other passenger, turning as the motor started.

No one heeded him.

"By-by, don't break any records," Rupert called after the chauffeur. "Hold yourself in, do. If you shed any more tires, telegraph for me, and if I'm within a day's run, I'll come put them on for you and save you time."

Silence closed-in again, as the red tail light vanished around a bend. The gray car's driver nodded curtly to the stupefied youth in the middle of the road.

"Unless you want to stay here all night, you'd better get in the machine," he suggested. "My name's Lestrangle—I suppose yours is Ffrench?"

"Dick Ffrench. But, see here, you mean well, but I'm going with my cousin. I'd like a drive with you, but I'm busy."

"You're not fit to go with your cousin."

"Not—"

"Fit," completed Lestrangle definitely. "Can you hang on somewhere, Rupert?"

"I can," Rupert assured, with an inflection of his own. "Get your friend aboard."

Lestrangle was already in his seat, waiting.

"What's that for?" asked the dazed guest, as, on taking his place, a strap was slipped around his waist, securing him to the seat.

"So you won't fall out," soothed the grinning Rupert. "You ain't well, you know. Not that I'd care if you did, but somebody might blame Darling."

The car leaped forward, gathering speed to an extent that was a revelation in motoring to Ffrench. The keen air, the giddy rush through the dark, were a sobering tonic. After a while he spoke to the man beside him, nervously embarrassed by a situation he was beginning to appreciate.

"This is a racing car?"

"It was."

"Isn't it now?"

"If I were going to race it day after tomorrow, I wouldn't be risking it over a country road to-night. A racing machine is petted like a race horse until it is wanted."

"And then?"

"It takes its chances. If you are connected with the Frenches who manufacture the Mercury car, you should know something of automobile racing yourself. I noticed your limousine was of that make."

"Yes, that is my uncle's company. I did see a race once at Coney Island. A car turned over and killed its driver and made a nasty mess. I—I didn't fancy it."

A wheel slipped off a stone, giving the car a swerving lurch which was as instantly corrected—with a second lurch—by its pilot. The effect was not tranquilizing; the shock swept the last confusion from Ffrench's brain.

"Where are you taking me?" he presently asked.

"Where do you want to go? I will set you down at the next village we come to; you can stay there to-night or you can get a trolley to the city."

The question remained unanswered. Several times Ffrench glanced, rather diffidently, at his companion's clear, firm profile, and looked away again without speaking.

"I went out to get my cousin to-day, and my host gave me a couple of high balls," he volunteered, at last. "I don't know what you thought—"

Lestrangle twisted his car around a belated farm wagon.

"How old are you?" he inquired calmly.

"Twenty-three."

"I'm nearly twenty-seven. That's what I thought."

The simpler mind considered this for a space.

"Some men are born awake, some awake themselves, and some are shaken into awakening," paraphrased Lestrangle, in addition. "If I were you, I'd wake up; it comes easier and it's sure to arrive anyhow. There is the village ahead—shall I stop?"

"It looks terribly dull," was the doleful verdict.

"Then come with me," flashed the other unexpectedly; for a fractional instant his eyes left the road and turned to his companion's face. "Did you ever see race practice at dawn? Come try a night in a training camp."

"You'd hother with me?"

"Yes."

A head bobbed up by Ffrench's knee, where Rupert was clinging in some inexplicable fashion.

"Once I rode eight miles out there by the hood, head downward, holding in a pin," he imparted, by way of entertainment.

Ffrench stared at the reeling perch indicated, and gasped.

"What for?" he asked.

"So we could keep on to our control instead of being put out of the running, of course. Did you guess I was curling a headache?"

"But you might have been killed!" exclaimed Ffrench.

Even by the semi-light of the lamps there was visible the mechanicalian's droll twist of lip and brow.

"I'd drive to hell with Lestrangle," he explained sweetly, and settled back in his place.

Ffrench drew a long breath. After a moment he again looked at the driver.

"I'll come," he accepted. "And, thank you."

It was Lestrangle who smiled this time, with a sudden and enchanting warmth of mirth.

"We'll try to amuse you," he promised.
